Venezuelan Units Move On 3 Fronts Against Insurgents

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Government troops rolled over light resistance to the edge of Carupano today under orders to crush rebellious marines and military policemen. Loyal warplanes bombed and strafed the coastal city.

President Romulo Betancourt accused the rebels of seeking to set up a Castro-type Communist regime in Venezuela and gave them an ultimatum to surrender by dawn or be destroyed. Two government destroyers steamed into the port of Carupano, 300 miles east of Caracas.

Betancourt predicted the uprising would be quickly crushed and claimed his government was in complete control of the rest of the country.

Despite the president's ultimatum, midmorning passed without a word from Carupano—either of rebel surrender or further fighting.

Move From 3 Directions
Loyalist troops moved on Carupano from three directions after the city's 400-man marine garrison and 50 military policemen rebelled and demanded the Betancourt government quit. The rebels reportedly passed out arms to Communist and leftist supporters.

Radio reports from cities near Carupano asserted the rebels attempted to spread the revolt by forcing 3,000 townspeople to demonstrate against the government. Loyalist marines were airlifted from Caracas to Cumana, about 60 miles west of Carupano, and marched eastward along the coast road. Army units from Ciudad Bolivar and Maturin moved on the rebels from the south and west.

Meet No Resistance
The government forces met no resistance in the small towns of Rio Caribe, about 12 miles east of Carupano, and Cariaco, some 20 miles to the southwest. A fire fight broke out on one road leading into Carupano before government forces seized a rebel road-block.

Cumana radio reported heavy casualties, but this could not be confirmed.

Government sources linked the Carupano rebels to the Communists and members of the pro-Castro revolutionary left, who have been waging a guerrilla and terrorist campaign against the government in the mountains and hamlets of Venezuela for several months.

The rebels launched their revolt shortly after midnight Thursday, seized the city's radio station and occupied government buildings. A government source identified the rebel leader as navy Cmdr. Jesus Molina Villegas and said a brother of Molina's recently had been arrested on suspicion of subversive plotting.

JFK Relaxing At Palm Beach

Quite a Change From Busy Friday

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President Kennedy, a good deal happier with America's air power, settled today into a weekend of quiet leisure by the sea.

The Palm Beach White House said the President planned nothing more exacting than a cruise, weather permitting, on the yacht Honey Fitz. Mrs. Kennedy was in Middleburg, Va.

It was quite a change from a busy Friday that embraced a swing through the South for a major foreign trade speech in New Orleans and a look at a thunderous demonstration of Air Force might at Eglin Air Force Base in northwest Florida.

In the speech on foreign economic policy, Kennedy said that America must "trade or fade." He proposed that it trade for its own sake and that of the free world, that it join in a trillion-dollar "Atlantic partnership" to open up vast markets.

The President flew east to Eglin, and in a word of thanks and farewell after a four-hour visit, he told a crowd on the base:

"I don't think anyone could have watched the flying that we have seen today and the commitment to this country demonstrated by those who manned these airplanes and put in time without going back home a good deal happier."

The Air Force provided a pair of rocking chairs from which Kennedy watched two phases of its big show.

He also drove along a lineup of nearly three-dozen different types of planes. From California, where they set new records for speed and height, the Air Force had brought in its famed X15 and pilot Robert White. And in a hangar that was out of bounds for nearly everyone else it had on display for the President a U2 plane of the type used by Francis Gary Powers when he was downed on an espionage flight over Russia.

From a grandstand, Kennedy pushed a button that sent eight, giant B52 bombers, with 64 engines screaming, into a scramble that put them into the air 15 seconds apart. Six Voodoo intercept fighters followed at five second intervals, with loud blasts from their afterburners.

It was a mock alert that would have been the real thing at 88 air bases around the world in event of actual war.

PARADE MARKS GIRL SCOUT ANNIVERSARY—Several hundred Girl Scouts and Brownies and even a group of Boy Scouts marched in the downtown parade Friday evening to mark the 50th anniversary of Girl Scouting. This float was one of several which followed the line of march north on Lincoln to Waterworth-Memorial Park where a campfire program was held. "Honor the Past — Serve the Future" was the theme. Some of the city's early scout leaders rode in the parade as honor guests while today's busy leaders marched in the ranks with their troops.

'Crocketts' Go to Overseas Units

GIs Get Atomic Mortars

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army's Davy Crockett—an atomic mortar for front-line troops—finally is in the hands of American forces.

The Defense Department, confirming this for the first time, declined to say where the Crockett has been assigned.

But indications are the first of the weapons probably has been given to Army forces deployed in West Germany, facing 22 Russian divisions in Communist East Germany.

Sources said each of the five U.S. infantry divisions in Germany likely would mount about 15 of the Crocketts, which can hurl a warhead about six miles. The weapon's nuclear warhead carries the blast power of somewhat less than 1,000 tons of TNT.

When the Crockett was unveiled two years ago it was said by the Army to "dwarf in firepower anything we have ever known in the immediate area of the battle line."

When the Army's divisions are reorganized, the plan calls for a Davy Crockett mortar platoon in each battalion, with three weapons — the maximum — would have 45 atomic mortars.

Army specialists said the Crockett, operated by two- and three-man teams, would be aimed to blast enemy pillboxes, bunkers, troop masses, artillery positions, tank concentration command posts, supply dumps and communications.

It can chew up any of these within 200 to 500 yards of its burst. Official confirmation that the atomic mortar has been given to the troops came amid reports that President Kennedy will reduce the production of nuclear warheads, chiefly because the United States already has a huge stockpile.

The defense department neither confirmed nor denied the reports.

The President's reported decision was said to have been prompted in part by a feeling within the administration that the spread of nuclear weapons in the U.S. military makes it tougher to control them and increases the chance of accidental or unauthorized firing.

Some officials, feeling the reported cutback may hit the Army hardest, disputed the idea that there might be loose military control of nuclear weapons.

They said that after permission to use such weapons in Europe passed down from the President through Gen. Lauris Norstad, the American and North Atlantic Treaty Organization commander, control would be vested in 7th Army headquarters. It would be told the numbers and types of weapons it could use.

Norstad has authority to use his own judgment on unleashing nuclear weapons in an emergency, if he can't get through to the President.

The U.S. move was disclosed as the NATO allies meeting behind closed doors reportedly adopted a new nuclear policy calling on alliance members to work out guide lines on how and when atomic tactical weapons should be used in event of a Soviet attack.

NATO's foreign and defense ministers had been seeking agreement on a proposed policy for resort to nuclear arms in case of Red attack that would still give President Kennedy the final decision.

The plan was contained in a report read by NATO Secretary-General Dirk U. Stikker.

Sources said Italian and French representatives expressed reservations on Stikker's report, but diplomatically avoided any action that would obstruct implementation of the policy.

As a result — informed sources said — the NATO Permanent Council, which meets in Paris, will handle the information exchange while military representatives of posts, supply dumps and communications.

Interest Focuses On Commissioner, Auditor Contests

Columbiana County's vote in the primary elections Tuesday could fall as low as 16,000 or climb as high as 20,000, depending upon such unpredictable variables as the weather and last-minute interest, Frank R. O'Hanlon, Election Board clerk, estimated today.

Democrats and Republicans will pick slates for state, district and county offices to run against each other in the Nov. 6 general election. At the last comparable election in 1960, the county vote hit 15,774—9,271 Republicans and 6,503 Democrats.

It's a so-called "short ballot" year because only four county posts are at stake—one commissioner's seat, auditor, state representative and one of the two posts on the Common Pleas Court bench.

The two parties will nominate for state offices from governor through treasurer, as well as picking slates for posts on the Ohio Supreme Court and the Seventh District Court of Appeals.

Columbiana County also will vote as part of the 18th Congressional District, picking candidates for a seat in the House of Representatives, and as a segment of the 20th-22nd State Senatorial District, naming aspirants for one seat in the upper house of the General Assembly.

Both parties will elect members of their county and state central committees.

2 GOP Contests In County
Two Republican races will highlight Columbiana County balloting, a three-way fight for a single nomination as county commissioner and a two-man contest for the county auditor's nomination.

Democrats have no contests on the county level and two other GOP incumbents are unopposed.

The GOP commissioners' race has as candidates William Weir, Salem wallpaper and paint merchant; Samuel B. Webber, a former East Liverpool councilman, and James W. Boyd, operator of the Boyd Lumber Co. at Glenmore.

The two hold-over commissioners are Republicans — Walter Hunston of East Palestine and Galen Greenisen of Salem.

In the GOP race for the county auditor's nomination are Mrs. Gloria L. McElroy of Wellsville, a former pottery office worker, and T. Emerson Smith of Salem, former county chairman of his party and one-time member of the Election Board.

Unopposed on the Republican slate are State Rep. Clarence L. Wetzel of Lisbon, running for his seventh term, and Judge Raymond S. Buzzard of East Liverpool, asking a second term on

4 Hurt, One Critically In Area Traffic
A two-car collision on Rt. 14, three-tenths mile west of the Pennsylvania state line at 11:15 p.m. Friday critically injured a Darlington, Pa., man and hospitalized a Columbiana father and his daughter.

Albert Dunn, 42, of Darlington, was taken to Salem City Hospital, then transferred to Youngstown South Side. He suffered a fractured skull and broken right arm.

The occupants of the other car, John A. Woodward, 71, and his daughter, Cynthia, 26, both of 416 N. Main St., Columbiana, are in fairly good condition at City Hospital.

The father received a laceration of the upper lip and Miss Woodward, a passenger, suffered a severe laceration of the scalp.

Ohio Highway patrolmen are still trying to piece together information on how and why the accident occurred. They say the front end of the Woodward vehicle was demolished and the right side of Dunn's car was smashed.

The Woodwards were on their way home from Pittsburgh where Cynthia works. Her father had gone there to pick her up.

Glenn Host To Titov At Cookout

WASHINGTON (AP)—Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. almost burned the steaks. Cosmonaut Gherman Titov wound up in gherman. But everyone seemed to have a wonderful time.

The affair: A spur-of-the-moment cookout at Glenn's modern brick home in nearby Arlington, Va., Friday night.

In the hurry to get the frozen steaks cooked, someone poured on too much charcoal. A late arriving guest said it looked like Glenn's garage was going up in flames.

"Daddy cooked the steak and it almost got burned up," said Glenn's 14-year-old daughter, Carolyn. "But they Titov and his wife Tamara seemed to like it. We had a very enjoyable evening."

Glenn said later that everyone put on aprons and pitched in to get the dinner—steak, peas, potato chips, salad and ice cream—on

Confident Living

By Dr. NORMAN VINCENT PEALE
Think Big And Get Going

Have you been working hard without much to show for it? Striving to accomplish something but making little progress? Let me tell you about two men who broke out of that status through the power of a positive idea. The same idea could get you going too.

Dr. Peale

In 1950 at Carrollton, Georgia, Roy Richards built a small plant for making wire and cable. Farm products were no longer keeping the area prosperous and Richards thought conditions called for a local industry. A Carroll County boy himself, he had worked his way through Georgia Tech and had become a successful builder of electrical distribution systems. He figured that wire and cable could be produced at Carrollton at a profit.

He recruited a few men experienced in the fabrication of copper and aluminum conductor wire. For general manager he picked Roger Schoerner, a young executive who had gained a lot of know-how working for a nationally known copper company. By the end of the year the company was a going concern — it had 22 employees and had shipped two million pounds of wire.

BUT A GOOD START is one thing; steady progress is another. In the wire and cable business two million pounds is "peanuts." To achieve a sizable operation Richards and Schoerner had many obstacles to overcome. For the next two or three years the company's growth was frustratingly slow.

Then one Sunday morning Richards went to church and heard a sermon that inspired him with a new idea. As I happened to be the one who preached that sermon, this later led to our becoming acquainted. That is how I came to know the story.

The theme of that sermon was THINK BIG. One point in particular struck Roy Richards with great force — it was the idea that to get a man to give $500 to Christian work ask him not for $500 only, but for $2,000. The bigger your thinking, the more likely you will get a comparable response.

Now a major problem with the Southwire Company was the difficulty of getting big orders from businessmen accustomed to relying upon long established large-scale suppliers. Armed with his new idea, Richards went again to see a man to whom he had been trying to sell a carload of wire. This time, instead of talking in terms of a car load, he said, "Mr. Smith, my purpose is to offer you a million pounds of wire. We can let you have that much this year if we may have your order very soon."

A million pounds of wire would be maybe thirty to thirty-five carloads. The customer looked startled. He said, "Well, I will have to think it over." Later in the day he telephoned: "Mr. Richards, we are not in the market for quite as much wire as you suggested, but we will take half a million pounds."

SINCE THAT TIME Southwire has grown astonishingly fast. Today it occupies a plant comprising six aluminum-clad buildings, employs several hundred workers, operates a fleet of 50 delivery trucks and ships annually more than 40 million pounds of wire and cable. It has been called "an industrial miracle."

Richards and Schoerner have systematically followed the THINK BIG approach with technical problems as well as sales. They have consequently been leaders in methods and equipment — they initially adapted for conductor wire production a "continuous casting" machine originally designed for making clothesline. And Southwire has also been first in production with several successful new types of wire.

"The thing that really started us going was a sermon," says Richards. And Schoerner adds: "We've been making a business of doing things people say can't be done." These men are real positive thinkers!

THE PRINCIPLE OF thinking big will work consistently for those who have right aims and genuine concern for the well-being of their fellow human beings. Roy Richards and Roger Schoerner are such men. They believe God guides the person who tries to live according to His will. Their standards find expression, for example, in the company's liberal personnel policies, which include a profit sharing plan. Another thing of significance is the Employees Chapel, built by a group of employees at their own suggestion and serving employees of all faiths as a quiet place for meditation or prayer during spare moments of the working day.

To really get going, see to it that your aims and ways of doing things are in line with great religious teachings — and always THINK BIG.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Clearance, weather information, assigned altitudes and airways, landing instructions... we take these for granted. We simply fly from point to point, our progress and safety undergirded by an intricate web of scientific communication.

Perhaps that's why, today, so many assume that some celestial system ought to assure everyone comfort, success and happiness.

But the control tower can operate only because every pilot respects its purpose and has faith in its instructions.

Our moral progress and our spiritual security are the constant concern of the Church. Its worship and guidance undergird the lives of all who respect its Purpose, and have faith in the truths of God which it teaches.

If One, Vote For County Home Levy

Columbia County commissioners have submitted two tax propositions for voters' consideration at the Tuesday primaries.

One is an eight-tenths mill general operating levy for courthouse offices.

The other is a seven-tenths mill levy to provide funds for the maintenance repair, operation and new construction of the County Home.

THE COUNTY HOME is in dire need of attention and for the sake of the 92 residents there, voters ought to approve this levy. Only last week the state fire marshal's office threatened to close the infirmary unless remedial steps are taken at the century-old building. To house the county wards elsewhere undoubtedly would require more money than the seven-tenths mill will yield.

Voters last year rejected a bond issue to build a new home, yet the people of Columbia County are responsible for the care of the aged at the infirmary. If dubious voters were to visit the County Home, where 45 per cent of the residents are hospital cases, they'd vote "Yes" for this levy in a hurry.

CONCERNING THE eight-tenths mill levy county office expenses, the need does exist but it lacks the urgency of the infirmary project. Expenses have increased in almost every Courthouse department but commissioners have been without extra revenue to meet the rising cost of operating the county government.

Only through reduced budgets has the Courthouse been able to function at all. Income from the regular tax rate has not changed in 20 years, although the results of the reappraisal next year probably will be of some help.

IN SUMMARY, both county levies are needed, but if there is a preference it should be the County Home, by all means.

110 Corpses At a Clip

Anti-Moslem Algerians and anti-Gaullist French share a grim, jut-jawed certainty they can carry on terror long enough to tempt their opponents into ruinous extremism.

This is baiting on a scale the world never has seen before — an attempt to torment millions. The supposition on which the atrocities are committed is that enough rancor finally can be generated to force Moslems in Algeria and Frenchmen in France out of their minds.

In a state of blind rage they then would turn on their tormentors and precipitate a condition of chaos. This would enable anti-Gaullists and Algerian terrorists, who are working hand in glove though they are not striving for the same goal, to gain their ends.

Among these are members of the French Communist movement, always to be reckoned with. Their best hope of success, as always, lies in widespread disorder, giving them a chance to practice their specialty—creation of new police states.

Terrorism in Algeria has reached what is believed to be a new record in one day — at least 110 Moslems killed in one dock-side explosion planned and executed by terrorists. There is no record of minor acts of terror in Algeria and France, but they go on endlessly.

Always the aim is the same: Goad the victims into angry retaliation.

Start a war.

Win at any cost, even if it means the destruction of France.

Is it true again of the French, as it seemed to be when Charles de Gaulle saved them from themselves in 1958, that their political decadence has reached the point where they now destroy each other for the sake of destruction, having no constructive purpose whatsoever?

Nothing's What It Used to Be

Former President Eisenhower sounded in a morbid mood at the dedication of the new $3 million Eisenhower Library in Abilene. The general tone of his remarks was gloomy.

Modern art and the acrobatic dance people currently are doing depress him. Spiritual and patriotic development are lagging behind scientific, industrial and material accomplishment, he declared. He also assailed vulgarity, sensuality and "downright" filth in movies and books.

The theme is familiar, and there are 100 speakers who can ring the changes on it more gloomily than our former president. Jeremiads are greatly in demand right now. Optimism is out of style. Even Secretary of State Rusk joined the anvil chorus when he arrived in Athens, saying he saw no hope for relaxation of international tension.

A FEW NIGHTS ago in a television presentation of college boys and girls who go to Daytona Beach for Easter vacation the point was made repeatedly that these young people believe they are under unusual tension; that things aren't what they used to be for them either.

They certainly aren't.

College kids didn't used to go to Daytona Beach for the Easter holiday. They bummed a ride home if it wasn't too far. Otherwise, they holed up and ate canned beans until school was in session again.

We didn't used to build multi-million-dollar libraries to save the papers of presidents, nor did we used to give former presidents pensions so they could live first-class and not be forced to sell their memorabilia for walking-around money.

As for all the other things that people who yearn for the past point to as being wrong with the present—and some are enough to gag a goat—they are not peculiar to the present by any stretch of misrepresentation. Every evil thing going on today was invented soon after Adam and Eve learned to like apples.

It is only man's towering ego that makes him think he goes on continuously year in, and year out devising something worse than his ancestors. Except for nuclear bombs modern man has thought of no proof of his deterioration that hadn't been worn threadbare before the beginning of the Christian era.

THIS IS NOT to say we shouldn't be concerned or utter another jeremiad now and then to keep the Pollyannas from walking tippy-toe into the great abyss of fallen peoples and nations.

It is only to say that any remarks implying that things now are worse than they used to be are suspect.

The truth is, things never were as good as they "used to be." Nostalgia never has been a dependable mood for comparing the generation on the sunset slope with the one struggling up the sunrise slope. The sunset slopers only tell how much they enjoyed the challenge when they were young and how little they enjoy it now that they have grown old.

Once Over

If you have no safety belts on a car made after mid-June 1964 you can be arrested under a law just signed by Gov. Rockefeller of New York. But law doesn't apply to older cars, which far exceed new ones in any year.

Theory must be that it is unimportant what happens to most folks driving autos in America. (Isn't a driver pitched from a model two years old as important as fellow in new car? Or do lawmakers think that under current traffic situations not many autoists live long enough to be considered party of highway picture?)

Gov. Rockefeller also signed law which, when signed by any five other states, will become national fix car safety standards under Congressional Vehicle Equipment Safety Compact, putting entire country behind tight safety controls.

Okay, but we will give odds that highways still continue to be death traps until there is a national compact applying safety standards to human beings.

All safety belts on earth, together with such additional safety devices as may be developed, won't get to first base if overbearing, arrogant, chance-taking drivers continue to operate, freely busting the elemental safety rules wide open.

Let's have Congress decree a safety compact with these provisions:

1. Every car operator to prove he is equipped with commonsense far surpassing that of an idiot, a member of Murder Incorporated or an escaped circus animal.
2. No driver to be licensed unless he is equipped with a sense of courtesy and a desire to live and let live.
3. All drivers' mental equipment to include proof they are driving on streets and not in outer space.
4. Every court to see that safety belts are

"I Do---I Guess."

LONDON

Indeed, its conception and delivery were macabre to a degree. The drafting commission was set up in February 1935, a month after the secret trial of the old Bolsheviks, Kamenyev and Zinoviev, and their imprisonment for "moral complicity" in the murder of the Leningrad party chief, Kirov.

Even while the commission met and deliberated the clauses which were to turn the Soviet Union, on paper, into a paradise for workers and a haven of justice and equity, the great purge was getting into its stride.

STALIN headed the commission, and Vishinsky was on it too. So were, among others, Bukharin and Sokolnikov who were to find themselves within the next three years in the dock, charged by Vishinsky with unimaginable crimes, and along with a host of comrades, some tried publicly, most not, sentenced to be shot.

At the very moment when the new constitution appeared with resounding guarantees of democratic rights and liberties, Stalin launched in earnest his personal reign of terror.

In short, all Mr. Khrushchev and his colleagues need to do to turn the Soviet Union into the sort of country they would like it to be is to reprint the Stalin Constitution in its entirety, give it a new name, and see that it is applied in practice.

But for 26 years the Stalin Constitution has been known by every Soviet citizen to be a hollow sham. It is presumably believed in high quarters that its formal repeal and substitution by an entirely new document will have a strong psychological effect and convince the skeptics that Khrushchev really means business.

It might have been more convincing if Khrushchev could have brought himself to admit that the old constitution has never been anything but a fraud.

Instead, the line he takes is that a new one is needed to reflect the change from "proletarian dictatorship to a socialist state of the whole people," to prepare for the transition from socialist state of the whole people, to prepare for the transition from socialism to Communism, and to provide even firmer guarantees of democratic rights and freedom for the working people.

THE SUPREME SOVIET session produced little news of interest. It was noteworthy that Khrushchev did not seize the occasion to make any sort of pronouncement, direct or indirect, about relations with China. Madame Furtseva, who fell from the party Presidium last autumn and who was believed to have vanished from the government, has been reconfirmed in her appointment as minister of culture.

The most interesting changes were in the party apparatus itself. Here the current Leningrad chieftain, Spiridonov, has been dramatically reinstated as a full member. These changes reflect deep and obscure undercurrents in the running struggle for power under Khrushchev.

Just how these currents are setting, it is impossible to tell from the movements on the surface. Spiridonov was vehement in his denunciation of Stalin at the 22nd party congress. It was he who led the cry for casting out Stalin's body from Lenin's tomb. He is also, like Frol Kozlov, now semi-officially No. 2 to Khrushchev, a Leningrad man.

Kirilenko, on the contrary, is one of Khrushchev's own stalwarts from the Ukraine and a fervent advocate of the need for more and more industrialization — a line to which Khrushchev himself, whether from conviction, or under pressure from tough-minded colleagues lately has been encouraging. He seemed to be in favor of more goods and services at the cost of heavy industrial development.

Truce Hopes Rise

By MARGUERITE HIGGINS

WASHINGTON — For the first time the Kennedy administration believes it can detect a desire on Moscow's part to achieve some kind of cold war truce. But this opinion is instantly accompanied by a figurative crossing of fingers.

Despite all the talks of obstacles to be overcome, a substantial number of New Frontiersmen are allowing themselves to think an accommodation on Berlin may be evolving even though they hastily add that in dealing with the Russians things can change over night.

What has changed

The attitude about Soviet intentions—and they hold the key—are based on a mixture of atmospheric, deductions based on the economic pressures in Russia and a tiny body of factual evidence.

In the department of atmospheric, the diplomats base their cautious optimism on such items as: THE STATEMENTS by Soviet Premier Khrushchev and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko concerning a glimmer of hope in the Berlin situation. The reasoning is that Soviet leaders do not hold out hope to their own people unless they intend to bargain seriously.

THE BELIEF that Secretary of State Dean Rusk deeply impressed on Mr. Gromyko at Geneva that the U.S., despite its awareness of the horrors of nuclear war, is ready to risk it to protect the vital interests threatened by the Russians in Berlin.

It is reasoned that the Russians, not wanting war, should welcome some out on Berlin that will permit them to sign a peace treaty with East Germany without inviting the uncertainties over Allied access to Berlin that might lead to hostilities. The international access authority for Berlin proposed by the U.S. is intended as a face-saving formula that could institutionalize access to Berlin.

THIS WOULD remove uncertainties by guaranteeing allied traffic rights and procedures.

On the economic aspect, the New Frontier is convinced that Mr. Khrushchev is beginning to realize the astronomical costs of nuclear weapons, space ships and so on. What's more, the Soviet Premier now probably recognizes that he cannot threaten, subvert, or trick the U.S. into unilateral disarmament, limited or unlimited, thus defaulting the arms race to Russia.

Further, Mr. Khrushchev will soon be confronted with a realization that the West has infinitely more resources than the Soviet Union and can win the arms race at far less cost to its citizens than can the Soviet bloc.

It is felt here that in five years time—if the race continues that long—Mr. Khrushchev will find that in order to continue a race in which he is lagging he will have to ask new sacrifices from the Soviet people.

MR. KHRUSHCHEV'S awareness of the high cost of trying to make the U.S. into a second-rate defense and space power has been reflected in such things as his recent interview with Gardner Cowles, president and editor of Look Magazine, in which he complained of the expense of making the prestige race to the moon. Since this and like expenses are going to skyrocket at an unprecedented rate, it is not possible that Mr. Khrushchev will feel the need to slow down the race, beginning first with an accommodation on Berlin. In other words, Mr. Khrushchev may be priced out of the cold war—or at any rate, out of an all-out cold war.

Tangible evidence of a changed Soviet attitude includes:

A DECREASE of Soviet harassment of Western planes in the air corridors to West Berlin (some harassment still continues.)

A SHIFT in Soviet attitudes on negotiations on Berlin from passive going-through-the-motions attitude to an eagerness to keep the talks going.

SOVIET STATEMENTS reversing their previous negative attitude on the proposed international access authority to the point of wanting to get down to cases.

Last week the State Department said that despite obstacles and continuing differences with Moscow on the access routes problem, it would appear possible to reconcile the two positions. This is by far the most optimistic official statement authorized in the State Department which believe that the current Soviet attitude is only a tactic to give Russia a chance to consolidate gains made recently in Berlin through erection of the Wall. While planning a new push, the dissenters feel, the Russians may accept Western concessions expecting to use them to advance when time comes for the next offensive. But the dissenters are in the minority.

Illegal Taxation

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Proposed Withholding Tax on Dividends Hit

If there's one issue that the American people can understand, it is that nobody — not even the government — is entitled to take away from the citizen money that belongs to him alone and is not due for taxes.

It now is estimated by the Internal Revenue Service that approximately $200 million will be taken from the citizens for different periods of time each year and then returned later to the lawful owners. Many people in retirement will be affected by the proposed law that would require corporations, banks and other institutions to withhold a certain portions of dividends and interest and pay it directly to the government every month or every three months.

Will the citizen get any interest for the time his money is in the government's hands? Nobody has come forward yet with a practical plan even to compute such interest. This "over-withheld" money certainly will not be earning compound interest for the citizen at the bank during the period he has been deprived of it.

The administration's argument is that too much dividend and interest money is escaping taxation altogether and, in effect, that "the end justifies the means." This may make things easier for the tax collector but can it make things easier for the consciences of members of Congress who know they will be authorizing a confiscation of private property?

The fact that this confiscation is for short intervals each year doesn't lessen its injustice. One of the Ten Commandments says something to this effect: "Thou shalt not take what doesn't belong to you."

There has never been any amendment to this which exonerates the government itself, including the Congress, for participation in such a wrongful act.

It has been contended that all these problems will be taken care of by the device of exemption certificates which the citizen who owes no tax will file in advance with his bank or savings institution. But this is not all of the problem. It doesn't cover the case of the citizen who must pay a small tax and who finds a larger percentage of dividend or interest income has been automatically withheld than he really owed.

Does a "refund," therefore, completely meet the question of morality when the citizen doesn't owe all of the tax that is to be imposed on him? Is it right for the government to collect a single dollar in taxes that doesn't belong to it and which the citizen has no had an opportunity to receive or calculate in his regular income tax return?

MORTIMER CAPLIN, commissioner of the Internal Revenue Service, who is a very able man with long experience in the field of tax law, has just made a speech in which he estimates that nearly 7 per cent of the total collected by the "withholding" plan on dividends and interest will have to be refunded by the government.

He says that maybe as many as two million taxpayers have various deductions for medical expenses and old-age allowances which might bring their tax obligation below the amounts withheld by the government.

He says: "For taxable individuals in the lower-income brackets there may be some over-withholding, perhaps $200 million of over-withholding out of an estimated $3 billion of total withholding."

The commission suggested that these taxpayers could get this money back annually or, if they prefer, "they can, under certain circumstances, get quarterly refunds of over-withheld tax."

While the government expects this procedure to be "rapid and simple," it will take time. Especially, it will necessitate careful examination of the individual income tax returns and applications for refunds.

It imposes a hardship. It will mean extra expense to the various institutions which have withheld the money, as well as expense to the citizen when he seeks to get his money back.

An educational campaign carried on by the government through the banks and corporations could recover, with little expense, a great deal of those taxes which, largely through ignorance, are probably being omitted by small taxpayers, some of whom leave their money in the banks to earn compound interest and do not have the means of calculating currently what they owe in tax.

THE WHOLE controversy seems likely to become an issue in the congressional elections. Mail to members of Congress is larger on this question than it has been on any issue in many years.

Nobody should object to paying what he owes the government for taxes, but plenty of objections are being voiced against paying money the citizen does not owe and against denial of the use of this money while government, with its red tape, is taking many months to figure out how much was never owed and must be returned to its rightful owner.

Also, by the time a refund is made, another "withholding" of eration has taken away a sum equal to the one just refunded. The citizen will have to apply continuously for refunds and may always have in a "withheld" status $100 or more that he never owed in taxes in the first place.

The Brink of Despair

By TRUMAN TWILL

It has been five years since the death of Joseph R. McCarthy Jr. on May 2, 1957. I could have managed to wait another five years before being reminded of one of my most baffling experiences.

As I saw this man, he was driving a fire truck to what might be a false alarm and cutting through a crowded park to get there. I sympathized with the innocent people he was hurting.

My friends, in turn, objected to my objections, which they construed as being in favor of not putting out the fire McCarthy said he was going to. To them the real thing was his obsession about the fire.

To me the real thing was the people he was bowling over.

I am as dead-set against communism as anyone and a lot more so than one type of American who roars against it as a theory then practices it like a card-bearer without realizing that absolutism under, any other name is still man-worship, which is the essence of communist dictatorship.

But I could see no connection between being against communism and being for McCarthy, and this caused many Americans like me to go through a rough time while the man was in the saddle.

Now that the whole thing has been over for five years, plus the shadow period after he had been "condemned by a 67-22 vote in the Senate late in 1954 for mishandling investigative powers, it seems like something that never could have happened.

I am impressed with the fact my country muddled through a trial of great vexation and come out right side up. It wasn't easy.

McCarthy performed a service by putting the country on guard against both a present and a potential danger. We needed to be reminded that the battle for men's minds was being played for keeps in our own back yard.

But in perspective his real service was to put the country on guard against its own hysteria. It was to remind thoughtful Americans that the Germans were let into Hitlerism via anti-communism.

And he reminded thoughtful Americans that their country was not as vulnerable to communism as extremists would have liked them to believe it was.

McCarthy attacked the State Department for harboring varying numbers of Communist party members. He said 57 in his famous opening-gun speech in Wheeling on Feb. 9, 1950. Other times other numbers were used. But not one person ever was convicted, though many were kicked around as the result of his accusations. Americans wanted to believe the worst.

He also swung into action against the Foreign Operations Administration, the Voice of America and the Army.

Some people may think the fire he was going to put out was more important than his fellow citizens he ran over on his way to an emergency he never located. I don't. Never did.

As an optimist who believes nearly everything turns out for the best, my two toughest tests so far have been Joseph R. McCarthy and concealed snippets of cucumbers in potato salad. Both have had me on the brink of despair.

City Teachers To Get Pay Increases If Levy Passes

By DICK BRAUTIGAM

One of the reasons the Salem Board of Education is urging voters to approve the renewal of an 8.5-mill school levy at the polls Tuesday is to enable it to improve the teachers' salary schedule here which is considerably below the state average.

Proposed pay increases ranging between $100 and $250 annually depend upon passage of the renewal levy, the School Board says.

In spite of salary adjustments made in recent years, the average pay of Salem teachers is $5,329 as compared to an average of $5,869 for all 151 cities in Ohio.

According to a salary schedule survey made in January by Marion Public Schools, Salem ranks 95th out of 137 cities reporting on what they pay teachers with a B.A. degree.

FOR PAY TO teachers with two years of college training, Salem ranks 96th out of 112 schools reporting. Salem is 93rd out of 121 for three years of training and 55th out of 112 for pay to teachers with five years of college work.

Only in pay to teachers with a master's degree is Salem slightly above average. At this level Salem ranks 68 out of 137 cities reporting. Salem schools currently have 15 teachers who hold M.A. degrees.

Before a salary revision was made last year, Salem was close to the bottom of the ladder in the state in paying teachers. Prior to the 1961 pay hike, Salem ranked as follows: two years training, 115th out of 117 three years training, 119th out of 121; B.A. degree, 121st out of 135; five years training, 92nd out of 112; M.A. degree, 106th out of 135.

The School Board feels that the latest survey still indicates a need to improve teachers' salaries if Salem is to compete for the best teachers available and hold the ones already here.

THE NEED TO IMPROVE teachers' salaries is one of four reasons listed by the administration and Board of Education for requesting renewal of the 8.5 mills. They say the levy is also needed to maintain (1) the present program of extended libraries, (2) enriched and expanded curriculum offerings, and (3) the general improvement of the quality of education.

Supt. Paul Smith points out that when Salem Senior High was accredited two weeks ago by the North Central Association, one warning was given. The Association said the school library is not growing at the recommended rate.

The 8.5-mill levy which will appear on the ballots Tuesday is actually the renewal of two existing levies, one for 4.5 mills and the other for 4 mills.

The 4.5 mill levy, which was established in 1948 by the combination of existing 3 and 1.5 mill levies, was renewed in 1952 and again in 1957. The 4-mill levy was first voted in 1960 as a 4.5-mill "emergency" levy and was reduced to 4 mills at its renewal last May.

The Board of Education decided to combine the two levies "for the sake of voting convenience, to save election costs and because the amount of dollars they provide is necessary for continued maintenance of a good school program."

SUPT. SMITH SAYS there is considerable misunderstanding as to the effect on Salem school funds of a property re-evaluation which will show on the tax duplicate of Columbiana County next year.

He explained that although property evaluation is expected to increase approximately 15 per cent, the total dollars available to the school district through voted levies would be the same next year as it is this year. This is because state law says the county budget commission must reduce all voted millage in direct proportion to the increase in the tax duplicate.

Salem's voted millage for school purposes is 18.4 mills. If the tax duplicate should go up 15 per cent, the voted millage would be reduced by the same amount to about 15.6 mills.

Only on the millage within the 10-mill limitation does the school district gain because of re-evaluation figures. Salem receives approximately $195,000 from its 4.2 inside millage and would receive an additional $29,000 with the assumed 15 per cent increase.

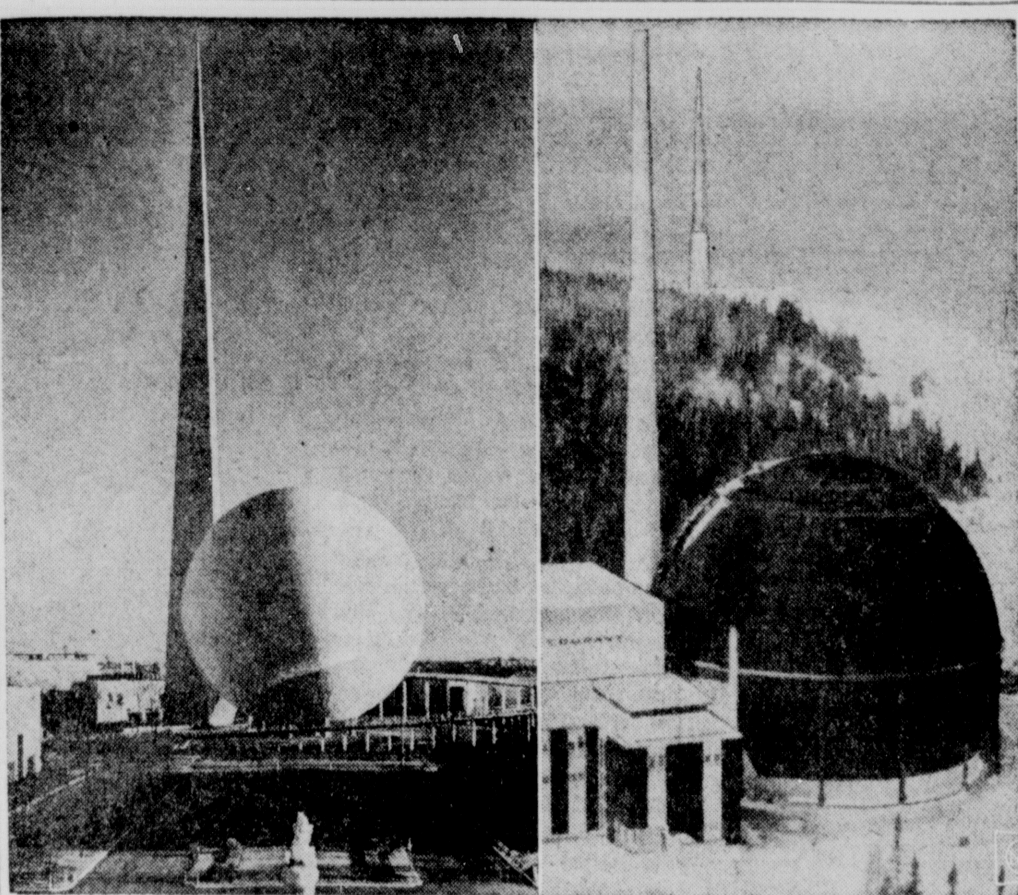

This increase, however, will be more than offset by a loss in state foundation funds of some $75,000 because the 15 per cent increase in re-evaluation would put Salem in a less desirable category when the foundation money is proportioned out by the state.

the board relies comes almost entirely from one man, a man who was fired by mine-mill and has since been proven to be an Army deserter and an unreliable witness.

Clark didn't identify the man. The Mine Mill and Smelter Workers Union is independent, having been expelled from the old CIO in 1950. It claimed 100,000 members in 200 locals in 1959, but since then its membership reportedly has declined to about 60,000. It represents workers in the copper, lead and zinc mining and refining industries.

place." The governor added: "We increased from $11,413,000, 000 to $13,851,000,000 in value added by manufactures, from 1958 to 1959. We passed California and Illinois and we gained three-quarters of a billion on New York, which is first."

But McElroy wasn't convinced. Right after DiSalle quoted those statistics, the attorney general insisted Ohio ranks fourth or fifth in industrial development among the states.

Meanwhile, a trio of Democratic candidates were refused permission to speak at Cleveland ward meetings.

Alan F. Reeves, candidate for congressman-at-large, said he was blocked from speaking and was escorted out of a Ward 29 rally by a sergeant-at-arms. Reeves is a Cleveland and member of the 29 Club but is not endorsed by the Cuyahoga County organization.

"We were told we were not on the endorsed list," Schell said.

County Gets $7,050 From State For Rental

State Auditor James A. Rhodes announced today that checks have been mailed for the semi-annual payment of $59,099.26 as income on the sale or lease of school and ministerial lands originally set aside in the Northwest Territory for school and religious purposes.

Largest rental payment of $7,050 was made to Columbiana County, while the smallest, $200, went to Vinton County. Highest interest payment, amounting to $2496.68, went to Carroll County, while the smallest, $2, went to Fairfield County.

As of the close of the 1961 fiscal year, the combined investment of school and ministerial funds amounted to $624,500, with interest ranging from 2½ to 5 per cent.

Maj. and Mrs. Titov spent about an hour and a quarter at the Glenns'. Then the two spacemen and their wives hurried to a television studio where Titov and Glenn taped a recorded interview in which Glenn revealed that the next American to journey in space will tow a balloon behind his capsule to measure the drag in the sky above the earth's atmosphere.

The interview was taped for NBC's "The Nation's Future" Sunday night.

The Glenns had invited the Titovs to dinner earlier, but plans were rather indefinite until Titov decided about 6 p.m. to take them up on it, a National Aeronautics and Space Administration official said.

At the time, the Glenns were attending a Soviet Embassy reception for Titov and his wife. There followed a mad dash for home to get the steaks out of Mrs. Annie Glenn's freezer.

The dinner capped another busy day for the Soviet spaceman. He also visited a steel mill and made another television appearance.

He leaves Friendship airport in nearby Baltimore this morning for Seattle and a visit to the World's Fair there.

Glenn said in the interview that, in addition to the 30-inch balloon towed by a 100-foot line, the next U.S. spacecraft would carry a small transparent sphere containing liquids. The purpose is to study the behavior of liquids in the state of weightlessness.

Astronaut M. Scott Carpenter is scheduled to attempt a triple earth orbit this month, matching Glenn's three trips around the world Feb. 20.

Vocational departments of the junior and senior high schools will hold a public exhibition in the cafeteria of Salem Senior High School Sunday afternoon from 1 to 6 p.m.

The all-school exhibit will include a display of articles made by the art departments, mechanical drawing of both schools, the junior high science and general shop classes and the senior high metal and wood departments.

United Teachers Lend Support to School Band Plan

The Teachers Association at United School charged today that the recent statement of the Columbiana County Traffic Safety Committee cautioning against building its new school across the highway from the present building gave its opinion without first getting all the facts.

Richard Stoffer, president of the United Teachers Association, said: "The Association feels that the statement issued by the Columbiana County Traffic Safety Committee has jeopardized the efforts of the United Board of Education. The statement was released without consultation with the Board or the school administration. The fact that the committee made no effort to get all the facts pertinent to the situation renders their advice as invalid."

"Safety has been a definite policy of this school and no one is more aware of this than the personnel of the school. Our record of safety speaks for itself.

"The children are sacrificed when the real issues are ignored and the major needs of our school are pushed into the background. Children cannot wait for an education and without it they are handicapped for life."

"Qualified teachers are leaving the system because they cannot work effectively in overcrowded classrooms. The boys and girls have tried to make their school an outstanding one as they have earned honors in music, scholastic achievements and athletics.

"Citizens know that the Board is concerned with the education of the children and the wise use of the taxpayer's money to supply this need."

GOP Chairman Urges Voters Pass Home Levy

Columbiana County Republican Chairman Ernest U. Whitacre appealed today for voters to support the County Home operating levy at Tuesday's primary election.

He said that "failure of passage of the seven-tenths mill levy would mean that the County Commissioners would be forced to close the Home in 60 days. Such an order was recently issued by the state fire marshal's office. It also would mean sacrificing the 400-acre County Home farm and equipment."

THIS GIRL IS ENJOYING HER SUMMER vacation at the shore because she has taken all the necessary precautions against the drying effects of sun and salt water. Boating is one of her favorite sports (left) and she prevents eye irritation from salt water spray by taking along soothing eye drops. She achieves a golden tan by gradually increasing the time she spends in the sun each day, and by using a preparation (center) that will screen out the ultraviolet rays. To protect her hair from drying effects of the sun, she wears a pretty beach hat (right). Her dark glasses are protection against glare and reflected light from sand and water.

Connally Win Would Be Victory for JFK

Texans Balloting In Primary

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Texans hoist smoke signals today on the Kennedy's administration's popularity in a slam-bang primary geared to produce two June 2 runoff finalists for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Although everybody concerned was busy denying it, there seemed little doubt that if 1.5 million voters put John Connally into a second round contest with Gov. Price Daniel, President Kenedy and Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson will have won a victory. What will happen in the runoff is regarded as being in the lap of the gods. But because Daniel is seeking an unprecedented fourth term, and because of obviously heavy financial and organization backing, Connally would be the favorite.

Connally, a 45-year-old Fort Worth attorney, served as manager for Johnson's unsuccessful bid for the 1960 Democratic presidential nomination. He left office as Kennedy's secretary of the Navy to seek the Texas governorship.

Weather ranging from clear to partly cloudy was forecast for today's balloting. Polls, opening from 6 to 8 a.m., will close at 7 p.m.

Five of the eight candidates for governor—including two Republicans contesting in only the sixth primary their party has staged in the state's history—wound up their campaigns on television Friday night.

Former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker, who quit the Army after he was reprimanded for his right-wing troop indoctrination campaign, departed from his unbend-ing role as a champion of the anti-Communist campaign of the conservative John Birch Society. Stationed before a revolving door at a downtown Dallas hotel, Walker accosted everybody who came in sight. He announced to one and all that he was Gen. Walker and was running for governor.

State Atty. Gen. Will Wilson fired a new blast at Kennedy's Department of Agriculture for what he said was favored treatment of Billie Sol Estes, Texas financier under a fraud indictment.

Don Yarborough, 36-year-old Houston attorney and the youngest man in the race, beat the drums for a liberal viewpoint. He found all of his opponents for the Democratic nomination so conservative as to be crusty.

Marshall Formby, who has led the attack on Connally as the beneficiary of Vice President Johnson's political largess, encountered tragedy when his wife and two small children were seriously injured in an automobile accident at Hamlin, Tex.

In the Republican camp, candidate Roy Whittenburg wound up nearly voiceless but confident. Whittenburg, an Amarillo lawyer and a Borger publisher, attacked the U.S. Supreme Court and what he called its "obvious desire to do away with the Constitution."

Whittenburg was figured to run behind Jack Cox, Breckenridge oil man, who gave Daniel a close race for the Democratic nomination for governor in 1960 before turning Republican.

BOY KILLED BY TRUCK

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—A truck struck and killed David Martin, 6, at an East Side intersection Friday.

CAR KILLS BOY, 9

JEFFERSON, Ohio (AP)—Paul Turner, 9, was killed when hit by a car on Ohio 90 seven miles northeast of here Friday. Sheriff's deputies said the Ashtabula County boy ran from the family driveway into the path of a car.

Four Drivers Fined, One Forfeits In Lisbon

LISBON — Four motorists were fined a total of $11 and costs Friday by County Judge James L. MacDonald for traffic violations, and another motorist forfeited a bond when she failed to appear for a hearing.

George T. Ursu, 36, E. 12th St., Salem, and Ray E. Whinery, 29, Lisbon RD 4, were each fined $2 and costs for speeding.

Robert D. Lippincott 19, East Rochester RD, was fined $2 and costs for passing traffic at a railroad crossing and Russell J. Willison, 25, Minerva RD, was fined $5 and costs for driving left of center and $25 (suspended) for driving with license plates issued to another car.

Gilda Mae Shaff, 35, of Salineville forfeited a $15 bond for speeding.

TRUCK CRUSHES DRIVER

CLEVELAND (AP) — A truck driven by James C. Fox, 31, of Cleveland, tipped over Friday and crushed him to death. The accident occurred in suburban Valley View. The vehicle was loaded with nine tons of sand.

Poland, Lowellville Victors In Mahoning Track Meet

New Records Not Established Thornton, Zimmer Are Most Valuable

Poland's classy Bulldogs and Lowellville's Rockets emerged the top Class AA and Class A track teams, respectively, in Mahoning County as a result of the annual classic held Friday night at Boardman.

Poland accrued 86 1/2 points followed by Youngstown Fitch with 62 and five-sixths, Boardman with 38 and five-sixths, Canfield with 28 1/2 and West Branch with 8.

A closer race was seen in the Class A division as Lowellville nipped North Lima by just four and one-fifth points, ending the meet with 62 and one-fifth. Springfield was third with 57 1/2 followed by Greenford, 26 and three-fifths, Sebring 12 and three-fifths and Western Reserve 12 1/2.

Bill Zimmer of Poland was voted the most valuable Class AA contestant of the meet while Dick Thornton of North Lima received the recognition in Class A. No county records were bested at the meet.

Cepeda Leads Giants to 10th Straight; Pirates, Reds Win

By BOB GREEN Associated Press Sports Writer The Chinese calendar notwithstanding, this may be the Year of the Baby Bull.

The Chinese calendar, as many residents of San Francisco know, lists this as the Year of the Tiger. But Orlando Cepeda, the Baby Bull of San Francisco's Giants, may claim it for his own.

To the surprise of practically no one, but to the considerable consternation of nine National League teams, the Baby Bull is on a rampage.

He drove in five runs on a homer, double and single Friday as the Giants blasted Chicago 11-6 for their 10th straight triumph. It also marked the 24th consecutive time the free-wheeling Giants had knocked out the opposition's starting pitcher.

They got help from Cincinnati's Jim O'Toole, who threw a five-hitter and held off St. Louis 3-2 in a night game. It stretched the Giants' lead to 2 1/2 games over the Cards.

In the others, all night games, Pittsburgh rushed in a run in the bottom of the ninth to clip the Los Angeles Dodgers 5-4, Philadelphia quelled a budding New York rally in the ninth and beat the Mets 6-5, and Houston took Milwaukee 7-4.

Cepeda, the Giants' Puerto Rican-born first baseman, had the best season of his career last year when he led the league in home runs with 46 and runs batted in with 142.

He's now hitting .340, is tied for the league lead with eight homers, and leads the league in runs batted in with 28.

O'Toole (2-3), 25, a lefty, allowed an infield hit to the leadoff man, Curt Flood, then retired 16 men in a row before he weakened and the Cards began threatening.

Solo homers by Frank Robinson, Leo Cardenas and Vada Pinson gave him just enough working room. Larry Jackson (3-2) was the loser.

Bob Skinner's bases-loaded, pinch-hit single drove in the winning run as the Pirates snapped a four-game losing string against the Dodgers. The Pirates held a 4-0 lead before the Dodgers came back with three in the eighth and tied it in the ninth. Elroy Face (1-0) benefited from Skinner's single while Joe Moeller (1-3) took the loss.

Frank Thomas got his eighth homer, a three-run blast, for the Mets, but it wasn't enough as the Phillies won their fourth straight. Relief man Dallas Green (4-0), who worked out of a bases-loaded, none-out situation in the ninth, won it while Ken Mackenzie (0-1) was the loser.

Houston spotted Milwaukee a 4-0 first-inning lead, then came back to win it behind the good relief work of Bob Bruce (1-0) and Dick Farrell. Jim Pendleton and Hal Smith had homers for the Colts, but two unearned runs in the seventh clinched it.

Meanwhile, in the American League, Los Angeles' Leon Wagner continued on a homer tear, hitting his seventh in eight games for a major league leading total of nine as the Angels beat Baltimore 5-4. Boston used a 12-run fifth inning to whip the Chicago White Sox 13-6 and Minnesota beat Detroit 4-2 on Rich Rollins' two-run homer in the ninth.

The Angels won it with two in the seventh off Hoyt Wilhelm (0-1) on Albie Pearson's single, a sacrifice, a single by Steve Bilko, a passed ball and Earl Averill's grounder that got by shortstop Ron Hansen for a single. Wagner's two-run homer had tied it 3-3 before the Orioles regained the lead in the top of the seventh on Dave Nicholson's double, a single by Whitey Herzog and Johnny Temple's squeeze bunt. The winner was Dean Chance (1-2).

Carl Yastrzemski, hitless in 13 previous at-bats, stroked a single and a double in the Red Sox' 12-run fifth, driving in four runs in the biggest one-inning explosion in the majors this season. Boston sent 16 men to the plate against five pitchers, eight hitting safely and five walking. The White Sox got homers from Camilo Carreon and Jim Landis, but it wasn't enough. Mike Fornieles (1-1) won it with Gary Peters (0-1) taking the loss.

Rollins' shot with two out off Ron Kline (1-1) gave the Twins the victory after the Tigers had tied it in the eighth when Chico Fernandez singled Al Kaline home. Joe Bonkowski (2-1) got the victory, the fifth in six games for Minnesota.

CLEVELAND BROWNS' Ticket Sales Booming CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Browns are counting on the 1962 ticket sale to be the highest in their 16-year football history, with 16,000 season tickets already ordered.

Arthur B. Modell, chairman of the board, said that last year "we didn't pass the 16,000 mark in season sales until Aug. 9."

Modell attributed much of the early renewal business to the club's new partial payment plan, which permits fans to reserve season tickets with a deposit of $10.

Senior veteran Ray Brown coped Crestview's only two firsts as the Rebels were trounced by Mineral Ridge 80-29 in a dual track meet Friday evening at Columbiana.

Brown hurled the discus 121-2 to capture the event and then heaved the shot 47-0 for his squad's other win.

Glenn Edwards and Chalmers Swaney led Mineral Ridge's attack. Edwards won the broad jump, the 220 dash and the 440 dash while teammate Swaney was capturing the mile run and the 880 run.

Indians' Late Rally Nips Athletics 6-5

KANSAS CITY (AP) — John Romano, a trio of relief pitchers and a never-say-die band of Indians have put Cleveland back on the winning path again. A three-game losing spell is over.

But Cleveland's 6 - 5 triumph over Kansas City didn't seem in the cards at the start of the eighth inning Friday night.

Dan Pfister, rookie fireballer, had limited the Tribe to one hit — a fourth inning homer by Romano — and had struck out 11 batters. Kansas City led 5-1.

Then a five - run flurry, highlighted by Romano's two-run circuit blast, turned the tide.

The Athletics made the five runs against Dick Donovan in the second inning, chasing the ace right-hander with a barrage of line drives. He was tagged for seven hits in 1 1/3 innings.

Then came the fine relief work. Frank Funk pitched 2 1/3 innings, giving up only one hit. Sam McDowell (2-1) pitched three innings, giving up three hits and getting the win. And Barry Latman set down six straight batters, striking out two, after being asked to protect the one-run margin.

The eighth frame will remain a nightmare for Pfister. Jerry Kindall opened it with a single. Pinchhitter Chuck Essegian walked. Al Luplow belted a couple of long foul drives to right field, bringing Manager Hank Bauer out to talk with Pfister.

Bauer stuck with the youngster, who proceeded to walk Luplow. Tito Francona rattled a single up the middle, scoring two runs. Luplow scored on a forceout.

Now it was 5-4 and Bauer still went with Pfister. Romano blasted over the left field fence.

Tonight's two-night doubleheader pits Cleveland's Ron Taylor (1-1) and Army soldier Jim (Mudcat) Grant (0 - 0) against Jerry Walker (3-1) and Art Ditmar (0-1).

Post time was 4:30 p.m., EST, with national television and radio scheduled for 4:15-4:45 p.m. — CBS. The weatherman forecast possible showers during the day and temperatures up to 84 degrees.

Ridan, unbeaten in seven starts as a 2-year-old and no worse than second in six outings this year except for a disqualification, became the horse to beat when Sir Gaylord suddenly came up lame Friday. The C. T. Chenery star had been the 8-5 choice of four victories this year, two at the expense of Ridan.

Sunrise County was made the 7-2 second choice. Admiral's Voyage was quoted fourth at 8-1 along with the El Peco Stable's Decidedly.

WARNING TO UNSUSPECTING GOLFERS

A certain sporting goods store on S. Broadway, which shall be nameless, has been advertising all the golf tees you can grab in one hand for 39c. Now, we admit that most golfers are getting about 125 to 180 tees, which is a great deal; but while you are in the store, the sneaky clerks start to talk about "Les Strokes" and "Gold Cup" golf balls costing only $9.95 a dozen... and before you know it, the bucks are shot.

Mickey Loves Jaynie, And Jaynie Reciprocates In Kind

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Love is bustin' out all over again on Sunset Boulevard.

Mickey loves Jaynie. Jaynie loves Mickey — and Stanley the gatecrasher hates Marcel.

Actress Jayne Mansfield proved Friday that divorces can be even briefer than marriages in Hollywood.

About 21 hours after she had filed a divorce suit in nearby Santa Monica, she called a news conference by the heart-shaped pool in her backyard. There to Mickey Hargitay, her Hungarian tarzan, she vowed: "Mickey, I'm your Jaynie. I always loved you, darling, even while I was filing for divorce."

It was a day of romantic triumph for Jaynie and Mickey. But for Stanley Berman, whose gate-crashing has allowed him to sit with presidents and Oscar winners, it was a day of humiliation.

He tried to beat Jaynie at the game she knows best — publicity and failed miserably.

As photographers urged Jaynie to give Mickey a reconciliation kiss for the early editions, the eager Berman came out of left shrubbery and darted for center camera.

He never made it. Marcel Demaertelaere, the Hargitays' handyman, stopped him and asked for his press credentials.

Berman, nonplussed, could only mutter, "I don't have any."

In a matter of seconds, Marcel was hustling the Brooklyn cab driver past the heart - shaped swimming pool, the heart-shaped barbecue pit and onto the heartless street, shutting a pink gate behind him.

All the while this was taking place, Jaynie was explaining why she filed for divorce in the first place.

"Well, Mickey and I had our first big fight," she said. "He didn't want to take the three children and four dogs to Italy while I make a picture, and I did."

"We compromised. We're taking the children, but only one dog."

Leetonia Students to Hold Prom, Party On May 14

HANOVERTON — Action by the Civic Benefit Fund Association may help some area students through college. President Charles Gause reports that a petition for amendment of the group's by-laws proposes that funds be made available to worthy students from the United School District and Franklin Township to further their college careers or specialized training after leaving high school.

The petition will be acted upon at the next meeting June 4.

Canton Woman Dies In New York Crash

EAST CHESTER, N.Y. (A.P.) — Mrs. Helen Klein, 73-year - old widow from Canton, Ohio, was killed Friday when the car in which she was riding struck a concrete overpass in this suburban New York City community.

The driver, Mrs. Ruth Holler, 48, and another passenger, Esther Furst, 48, both of the same Bronx address, were injured. Their condition was listed as not serious at a New Rochelle Hospital where Mrs. Klein was pronounced dead on arrival.

The car apparently went out of control on the Hutchinson River Parkway and hit the Cross County Parkway overpass.

Mrs. Klein's Canton address was 1424 Fulton NW.
